Carol Jackson named Captain of UCPD First woman to attain position

FEBRUARY 14, 2006: Police Chief Charles Adams announced today the appointment of Carol A Jackson to Captain of the U. City Police Department. A public swearing in ceremony was held in the City Hall rotunda among colleagues, family and friends. Jackson is the first woman to attain the position of Captain in the 100 year history of the U. City Police Department.

“Today we celebrate the success of Captain Carol Jackson,” said Police Chief Adams. “She has worked diligently among colleagues and in the community to uphold the department’s high professional standards of law enforcement. Jackson continues to take advantage of every opportunity offered by the UCPD to develop her skills and to help others grow. We are all very proud of her.”

Jackson began her UCPD career in 1978 as a Patrolman. She was promoted to Sergeant in '95, and to Lieutenant in 2001. Jackson has led the Department’s Bureau of Professional Standards since 2002. She is often the face of the UCPD in community programs such as the Citizen’s Police Academy and the Neighborhood Focus Groups.

Commenting on her achievement, Jackson said, “I am indeed fortunate to be appointed to Captain. I appreciate the confidence and trust in me shown by Chief Adams. I could never take this achievement for granted. And I make it my personal pledge to continue earning the confidence and trust of my superiors and the public. Today I am humbled by the show of love afforded me during this occasion.”
